

Workday Recruiting

Workday Recruiting is an end-to-end talent acquisition application built to help you find, share, engage, and select the best internal and external candidates for your organisation. With Workday Recruiting, you can:

- Bring workforce planning, sourcing, candidate management, and onboarding into one system
- Enable transparency and collaboration across the entire hiring team
- Deliver rich headcount and pipeline analytics to help the hiring team find the best talent

Workday Recruiting is designed and optimised for mobile devices. It works the way you work – on the go, collaboratively, and in real time – and helps improve employee engagement and user adoption.

Part of a single Workday system, Workday Recruiting helps organisations achieve true visibility across the entire talent acquisition process.

Sourcing

Job requisitions

As a single system with Workday Human Capital Management (HCM), Workday Recruiting works seamlessly with job requisition creation, management, and fulfilment. With confidential job requisitions, organisations can provide higher security for sensitive requisitions and candidates while only providing a select group of people with access to this information.

Candidate management

Bring together internal and external talent, as well as active and passive candidates. Keep candidates engaged through a tailored, straightforward job application process. Use the Workday core security model, business process framework, and reporting capability to support local regulations.

Referrals

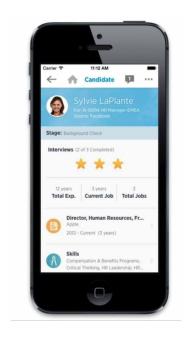

Workday Recruiting enables the entire organisation to participate in the talent acquisition process using referrals and recommendations. Through the referral leaderboard, you can encourage employees to generate more referrals by allocating points to their referral activity.
