

Our customers achieve amazing results

How data driven insights can lead to better decision making

Chief People Officer

- Prioritise a customer-focussed solution
- A unified view of HR and Finance is a big advantage
- For transformation to be leader-led, put data and insights into the hands of leaders to help their decision making
- Understand the value of employees
- Be able to plan for future talent needs
- Anticipate the customer journey

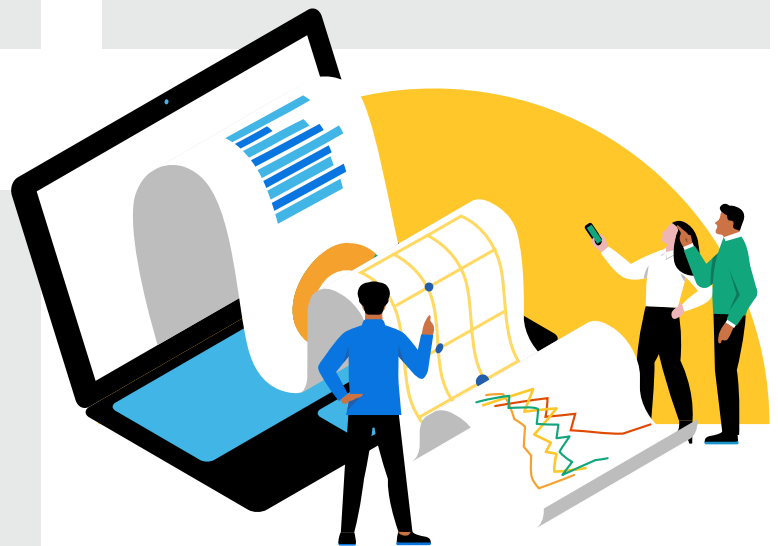

General Manager, People & Culture Services

- Platforms should enable collaboration between teams
- A single data source and global business processes can contribute to future growth
- Reduce the time spent on transactional activities
- Focus on the important things like workforce planning, capability, culture and leadership that will contribute to long term growth

HR Systems Manager

- Importance of being able to identify and analyse skills and talent across the workforce
- Provide a seamless user experience
- Have a single source of truth for employee data
- Insights and reporting capabilities help make data driven decisions

Understanding and analysing data to make data-driven business decisions is a key factor in choosing Workday.

To find out more about how Workday is committed to helping our customers confidently lead their organisation in a changing world, contact your Workday representative.