

Workday for hospitality.

The challenges facing the hospitality industry today are by no means small. Competition is increasing, margins are tightening, and guest expectations are changing. To stay competitive, hospitality businesses need to be able to hire, develop, and engage a skilled frontline workforce to deliver a superior guest experience. They also need to adapt quickly and strategically to change, and connect workforce decisions to financial insights. Unfortunately, many hospitality businesses struggle with costly, inefficient legacy systems that make agility challenging.

Workday combines HR, workforce management, payroll, financial management, planning, and analytics in a single platform, helping hospitality organizations across the globe focus resources on attracting and retaining an engaged workforce, while driving growth and profitability.

Support growth and change.

Maybe you're expanding your sales or delivery channels, opening new locations, or acquiring a new organization. Perhaps you're managing shifts in a complex regulatory environment or trying to meet the needs of all types of workers while balancing the business. Workday can help you through periods of growth and change with its unparalleled agility and adaptability. Our single technology architecture adapts to changes within your organization's structures, policies, locations, business units, workforce, and more. And it is all done through configuration, not costly customizations that require long lead times and IT support or third-party consulting services.

The Workday business process framework can be easily configured to meet a wide range of unique needs and requirements. Apply business processes and rules differently as appropriate for hourly workers, contractors, managers, and corporate executives, or for your union versus non-union employees.

Only Workday has AI and machine learning (ML) embedded into the core of our platform, enabling our applications to natively leverage AI and ML as part of the workflow—from identifying learning and growth opportunities to recruiting top talent faster and everything in between. Optimize, augment, and support your workers with ML-enabled process automation and AI-powered decision support, and benefit from pairing people with technology to unlock the value of your total workforce.

With Workday, you have full visibility into your talent across the entire organization—from corporate headquarters to store locations. Deliver the greatest possible impact with a workforce optimized for productivity, and provide personalized experiences and flexibility to frontline workers to give them more control over when and where they work—further meeting their expectations.

Engage employees to deliver outstanding guest services.

Providing a differentiated shopping experience and increasing guest loyalty is key to your success. And because frontline employees and managers have the most impact on guest satisfaction, it's essential that you hire the right people and onboard and train them efficiently, match skills and capabilities to meet business needs, and nurture and retain top performers.

Workday supports the full hire-to-retire lifecycle of your workforce. Recruit, onboard, develop, manage, and retain the best talent—from contingent, part-time, and hourly workers to store managers and corporate professionals—with native mobile functionality.

Change is reshaping every aspect of work. To quickly respond and make the right decisions, you need real-time insight. Workday provides workforce analytics and transactions in the same secure system you use to capture your people data. You can see what's happening and take action. You get a single source of record for identifying skills and strengths, reallocating resources, monitoring employee sentiment, giving anytime feedback, assessing retention risk, and more, helping to cultivate a culture of career development and opportunity, and reduce turnover and its associated costs.

There's a better way to reach employees than break-room signage, emails to personal accounts, or manager word of mouth. Yet, hospitality companies often rely on these inefficient methods to push procedural, operational, and social communications to specific individuals or groups. With built-in notifications and alerts, Workday makes it easier to reach and engage employees on the device of their choice, eliminating the risk associated with missed communications.

Achieve productivity and cost savings.

Hospitality companies are always looking for ways to reduce costs without sacrificing guest satisfaction. Native mobility, built-in business processes, self-service functionality, intelligent scheduling, and a consumer-grade user experience are essential to boosting productivity while managing costs.

Workday uses configurable workflow and automation to eliminate manual processes to help ensure compliance, accuracy, and standardization. This also frees employees and managers to spend more time serving guests and improving operations.

Workday makes it easy to analyze costs and productivity. Gain a clear understanding of the costs and capabilities of your workforce across geographies, locations, business units, and job roles. Workday enables you to manage your contract workers in the same system as your full-time employees, providing rich insights for cost-benefit analysis.

Control processes, minimize risk, and ensure compliance.

The physical separation of the corporate office and individual locations increases the chance for errors and inconsistencies in data and processes. This risk is compounded by complex compliance requirements, tight profit margins, and the high turnover of hourly workers.

Workday is a single system of record for information and processes related to compensation, overtime, absence, benefits, training, background checks, and more.

Automate hiring, onboarding, training, scheduling, payroll, step increases, and performance assessment across the entire organization—including differences for unionized and works council environments—to eliminate inconsistencies.

With Workday, all business processes are configurable and fully automated to follow an unbreakable approval chain or orchestrated set of activities or steps. And you'll be instantly notified of actions at risk of falling outside the process. You can give security permissions to employees and managers based on their role, and assign and monitor the completion of procedural and compliance training to individuals or groups.

Every transaction in Workday is tracked down to the field level. No other product has this level of security, audit, automation, and reporting in a single system.

Embedding AI into our financial applications provides intelligent automation and assisted recommendations to eliminate manual, repetitive tasks and free up time for more strategic work. For AI technologies to be trustworthy, trust must be built into them. Workday is transparent about how our models are designed, and how our customers' data is used to train those models.

Plan, consolidate, and close with confidence.
