

Workday Core Human Capital Management

The future is unpredictable and businesses must pivot to stay competitive. Yet HR leaders are often buried in manual work while employees get lost in a maze of outdated tools. When pay, benefits, and career growth live in silos, organizations lose sight of the whole person, creating a hidden talent drain and compliance risks. To adapt effectively, you need the right foundation—one where you can trust the data, make better decisions, and move quickly without technology slowing you down.

Workday Core HCM delivers a powerful, scalable foundation built for organizations of all sizes. Unlike fragmented legacy systems, Workday empowers you to manage your people, processes, and rewards with a unified, AI-enabled core. Workday enables you master the hard stuff—from complex retroactive changes to global compliance—delivering operational agility and a modern experience that changes the focus from clicking to asking.

Build your future on foundational excellence

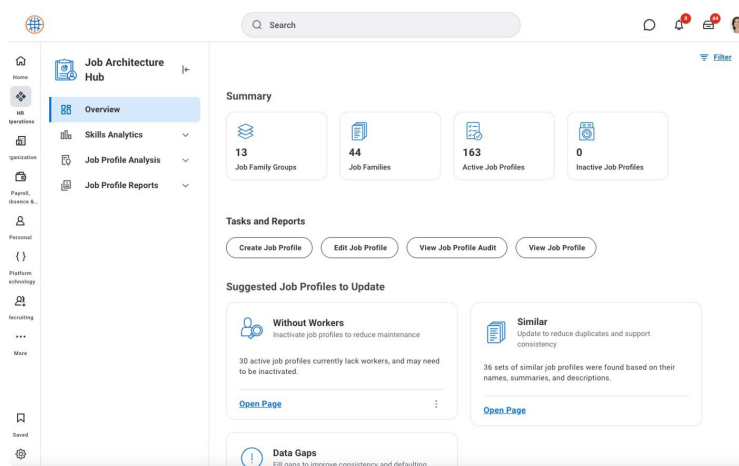

Workday Core HCM is an intelligent backbone, empowering you to adapt staffing models and visualize business structures. It manages complex compliance and privacy, ensuring your foundation remains secure as you scale. We streamline data management so your team can focus on strategy, not administration. By managing resources, assets, and third-party integrations alongside your people, you gain a holistic view of your entire organization.

Unlock growth by reimagining talent and rewards

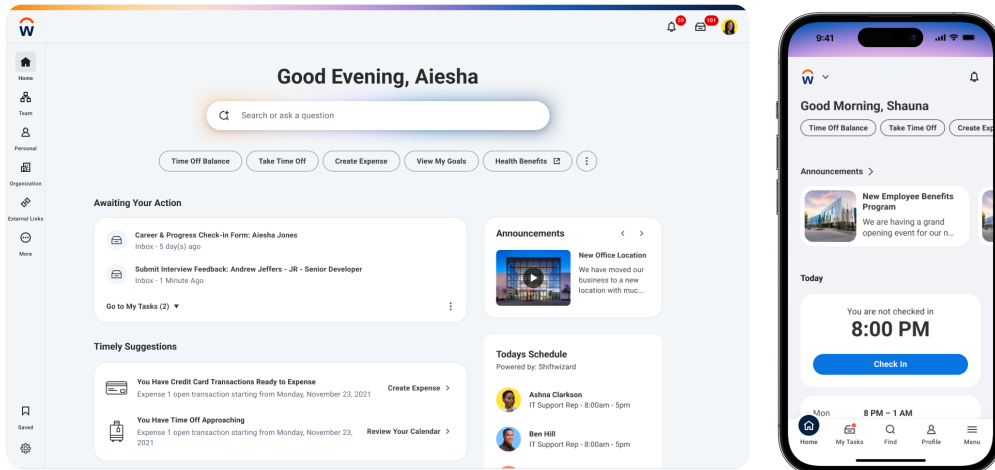

High performers leave when they feel undervalued. Workday connects the disjointed moments of the employee lifecycle into a seamless, consumer-grade experience. From onboarding to total rewards, we enable you to craft competitive packages and personalized journeys that drive equity, retention, and growth.

By unifying compensation, benefits, and wellbeing, you create a culture where people feel valued. Workday uses the Skills Cloud to transform static worker data into a dynamic foundation, empowering you to identify pay inequities and reward performance using real-time wage intelligence. This holistic strategy turns your organization into a destination for top talent.

Redesign work with AI by your side.

Traditional automation often just speeds up broken processes. Workday dials up productivity by eliminating the daily grind of manual tasks. Our search-first interface delivers instant answers, while AI agents and intelligent automation handle high-volume changes and eligibility rules in the background.

This approach empowers managers and HR teams to reclaim their time. Intelligent automation handles your most complex processes—from retroactive data corrections to high-volume mass actions—freeing your team from the burden of manual adjustments. Furthermore, streamlined scheduling and hiring tasks enable frontline and office managers to shift their focus from administration to their people. With Workday, you aren't just managing work; you are reimagining it with intelligence by your side.
